Consolidated report on special programs for advanced learners and slow performers

Dayananda Sagar College of Dental Sciences employs a differentiated instruction approach to cater to diverse learning needs by categorizing students into Advanced Learners and Slow Performers based on their academic performance. Remedial teaching strategies aim to eliminate learning deficiencies among Slow Performers and enhance motivation and performance among Advanced Learners. To support Slow Performers, the institution provides counseling, remedial postings, assignments, one-to-one discussions, and peer teaching and learning. Conversely, Advanced Learners are encouraged to participate in conferences, competitions, research studies and grants, scientific presentations, and workshops to push them further and achieve greater laurels. The goal is to improve academic performance, boost confidence and motivation, foster research and innovation, enhance employability skills, and promote lifelong learning. This approach has yielded positive outcomes, including reduced learning gaps, increased student satisfaction, improved academic achievement, enhanced research capabilities, and better preparedness for professional challenges. By addressing diverse learning needs, the institution ensures inclusive education and fosters academic excellence.
